Property Description

House of Dreams is a beachfront masterpiece with few equals in the Costa Rica real estate market. This exquisite luxury home provides a jaw-dropping experience from the first moment you set foot in the main residence (5,800 sf, 5BR). Imagine opening your home's front door to see a panoramic view of the Pacific, from floor to 20-foot-high ceilings. And it's not just any ocean view - this home has a slightly-elevated position that provides breathtaking scenery everywhere you look as well as direct access to the sand. To the right - waves crash on a rocky outcrop that bookends one side of Playa Honda, a cove-like beach visited by few people. To the left - the white foam of waves peeling in is the only thing interrupting the horizon. Situated on 1.28 acres of ultra-rare, titled oceanfront property, the land itself makes the property a jewel in the truest sense. There are few Costa Rica beachfronts that are titled all the way to the beach; fewer still are such large properties.
