Property Description

One-of-a-kind semi-open layout home designed as a tropical eclectic artist loft with undisturbed plunging ocean views and all-year-round sunset views from every single spot of the house. This house features a number of original antique pieces from both Costa Rica (Cartago) and southeast Asia and is inspired by places around the world. The house blends very well into the surrounding flora as well as being perfectly accessible to the main Escaleras concrete road leading you to the Costanera, the coastal Highway, in just under 5 minutes. Although connected to the local power grid, the house operates totally independently from the grid via solar and batteries in sufficient quantities to run air conditioning and the usual household appliances thus compensating for the very unreliable local power grid. Water is from the local Asada as well as a rainwater catchment system to make the best of the high-quality rainwater available almost all year round.
